MEDIATION CATEGORIES

Attorney Fee Disputes ♦ Civil Rights ♦ Employment law ♦ General Civil ♦ Government/School District Liability ♦ Personal Injury ♦ Police ♦ Premises Liability ♦ Product Liability ♦ Sexual Harassment ♦ Subrogation ♦ Uninsured/Underinsured Claims ♦ Wage & Hour ♦ Wrongful Death

Jeanne Behling is a full time mediator and an Adjunct Professor of Law teaching Mediation at Chapman University's Fowler School of Law in Orange.. She is an attorney who practiced for over twenty-five years representing both plaintiffs and defendants. She specializes in personal injury, product liability and sexual abuse/harassment. She also has extensive experience with subrogation issues and the representation of peace officers and government claims.

Jeanne began her career in the Los Angeles County District Attorney's office in 1988. Eight months after joining the office she had her first felony trial and at the time of her departure she was assigned as the sole prosecutor on a death penalty multiple defendant matter. In less than five years she tried over sixty criminal cases.

Jeanne moved to Orange County to join the civil firm of Alevizon Smith Susson & Palafox practicing both plaintiff and defense, including construction defect, premises liability, personal injury and catastrophic injury matters. She followed her husband to Singapore, where they lived for almost five years. She taught business law and political science at The Overseas Family College, which is affiliated with the California State System. Her two children were both born in Singapore.

Jeanne returned to California and joined Smith & Marquart practicing both plaintiff and defense but focusing on the representation of peace officers, personal injury and product liability. The firm dissolved, and she then became a partner in Smith & Behling and expanded her practice to include employment matters, sexual abuse and harassment cases.
