David Jafari is a seasoned litigator in Orange County, California with a passion for mediating disputes particularly those involving accusations of patent infringement. He holds a BSEE and MSEE in Electrical Engineering and Computer Science from The George Washington University in Washington D.C. Prior to founding Jafari Law Group in 2005, David worked for McDermott Will & Emery, one of the largest global law firms in the United States. He was an associate Trial Attorney in the Intellectual Property, Media and Technology Groups at the firm's Washington D.C. office. He represented high profile clients such as Hitachi, Medtronic and Intergraph in patent infringement actions including a case before the International Trade Commission. After graduating from law school, he worked for Blakely Sokoloff Taylor and Zafman, a patent prosecution firm handling applications for Intel. He drafted patent applications related to memory caching, CPU design, compiler optimization, and speech recognition technologies. He graduated third in his law school class of 123 in December of 1999.

David is passionate about mediation. During his 13 years of practicing law, he has attended numerous mediations where he has represented his clients and settled their cases through mediation. He holds a Certificate in Mediation from OC Human Relations Council and has been mediating cases with the Dispute Resolution Program of the Orange County Human Relations Council. He is also a mediator and an arbitrator with the Mandatory Fee Arbitration section of the OCBA.

David is currently the Managing Attorney at Jafari Law Group, a full-service intellectual property law firm. During the last 10 years, he has filed more than 50 cases in State and Federal courts in California, Illinois, and Texas for which he has been the lead attorney. He has filed and opposed summary judgments in both state and federal courts. In one case, David represented Hitachi in a section 337 investigation before the ITC from inception until 30 days prior to trial when the case settled. He was in charge of one of the 7 patents asserted, and performed claim construction, Rule 11 analysis, invalidity analysis, and summary judgment of non-infringement. In another case involving a design patent, David prepared and filed summary judgment of non-infringement and validity. He has also appealed an unfavorable decision to the federal circuit and argued before the three-judge panel in Washington DC. In another case, David opposed summary judgment and proceeded to prepare for trial. That case settled 19 days prior to trial. In another case, David opposed summary judgment based on statute of limitation and prevailed.

As a result of his experience, David has particular expertise in dealing with complex patent infringement litigation, trademark dilution, and copyright violations. He also has expertise in dealing with HDMI, and HDCP including anti-circumvention of the Digital Millennium Copyright Act.
