Douglas A. Scott, Esq.

Douglas A. Scott graduated from Claremont Men's College, in 1970, Cum Laude with a B. A. Degree in English, and double minors in History and Philosophy., worked as a Special Assistant to the then California Governor and future President of the United States, Ronald Reagan. He also worked as an assistant District Representative for Congressman Charles Wiggins.

In the fall of 1970, Mr. Scott enrolled at Loyola University School of Law in Los Angeles.

Mr. Scott was the sole practitioner from 1973 to 1976. In 1977 he formed the partnership known as Scott and Johnson with attorney Arnold Johnson, specializing in civil litigation, personal injury, real estate, family law, and probate. During this time, Mr. Scott and his firm became Regional Subrogation Counsel for Liberty Mutual Insurance Company handling all of Liberty Mutual's subrogation cases from Long Beach east to Blythe at the California/Arizona border up to 1982.

In 1983, Mr. Scott joined the prestigious and then largest Orange County personal injury law firm of Jay Horton, Frank Barbaro & Ned Reilly, as a Senior Associate, specializing in handling personal injury cases for plaintiffs only.

Mr. Scott later formed another partnership with former Horton, Barbaro & Reilly attorney Mark Peterson, known as Peterson & Scott, again doing plaintiff personal injury work for approximately five (5) years until Mr. Peterson became a Superior Court Judge who still sits on the bench in Riverside County. Mr. Scott also formed his last partnership with Hanna & Scott for another five (5) years with attorney John Hanna, also a former Horton, Barbaro and Reilly attorney. Mr. Hanna was appointed as Chief Legal Counsel for the California Department of Corporations.
